Union Cartmen Strike to Stop After the One Escaped Member of Brotherhood Carpenters.

Trouble Between the Federation and The Other Five Caught Aster Hold-K. of L. Breaks Out Anew.

A new phase of the threatened lockout of inton housesmiths is presented to-day, and the indications are that a war will develop between the Brotherhood of Carpenters and the affiliated unions concerned in the strike against the Jackson Architectural works.

The statement made by the Executive Committee of the Iron League yesterday that Criminal Court Building, and that it looks as if the boycott was about to be taken off, was evidently based upon the fact of Delegate James carpenters who went out through sympathy with the Housesmiths.

This move on the part of Mr. McKim came like a thunderbolt from a clear sky and an informal conference of walking delegates was at once held with the result that Delegate William Taylor, of Public Cartmen's Union No. 1 called off the cartmen furnishing material to a job on Colimbus avenue, between Ninety-third and Ninety-tourch scrept, thereby compelling seven Brotherhood carpenters to quit work. The matter was explained to the Brotherhood men, but no amignates the strike and the job is still idle.

To an Evening Work in reporter this morning Delegate Taylor said:

To an Evening Work in the purpose of strike another job to-day, which will jay off pourteen more Brotherhood men, are called off interbrotherhood men are Brotherhood that he is not a fit person to represent them. Two brickingers unions, however, have promised to support me in my fight against McKim.

The Waiking Delegate of the Brooklyn Housesmiths' Union said that the action of Mr. McKim was the more strange because the Board of Delegates, two of whom are Brotherhood men, had promised to support the housesmiths in every possible way until the strike should had in victory. This expression, he thought, was an evidence of the sincere sympathy of Brotherhood men with the Housesmiths, and he furthermore believed that the Brotherhood would repudiate McKim or else at once come out with an open declaration of war against the unions and K. of L.

The intention is, they say, merely to demonstrate that the placing of any of the amiliated trades comprising the Federation of Labor in places vacated by striking unions belonging to the K. of L. is antagonistic to organized labor under whatever name it may appear. They are, however, they say, prepared to support their position and will turn out Brotherhood carpenters wherever tound until they refuse to interfere with the housesmiths' strike.

"There are, however, a few prominent men who are known. They are the ones who will have to walk the plank, but the great majority of the union men will not be disturbed. The League is playing a game of bluff, and there will be no great lockout as threatened to-morrow or Monday."

Henry A. Hicks, Master Workman of Building Constructors' Assembly 253, who has charge of the labor side of the present strike, was very much exasperated over the action of Delegate McKim.

"I have men out to-day," he said, "getting information about a large number of jobs. If I find any where Brotherhood carpenters who can be forced out without punishing innocent men I will order strikes and the up the work. are, however, a few prominent men

The Brotherhood certainly must sanction his action else he dare not take such a bold step. I had, however, anticipated just such a move, because the day after the strike on the Criminal Court building he offered to put Brotherhood men in the places of the strikers.

"It will prove to be a sorry move for the Brotherhood. The matter will not end now, even should the Brotherhood carpenters be a campaign committee of five, David A. Bald-

This is the thirty-third day of the strike on the Criminal Court building, and the work is progressing at a snall's pace with a handful of non-union housemaths and a new laborers. The same is true of the Metropolitan insurance Company's new building at Twenty-third street and Madison avenue. Kranich & Bach's new piano factory at Twenty-third street and Third avenue, is completely field up and the union pickets have been called off.
